Where is the answer and where is the game and where is the solace you seek in this your season of and where is the future and where are the signs and where is the truth you believe on this the last day of your life now say goodbye so tell me now how can we survive when our world is broken we're burned and crucified when the lies are spoke the light can't break through this is the ending this is the time and this is the day of our judgment look up to that hole in the sky can you believe it can you deny and can you hold on to your life as it just passes you now shut your eyes so tell me now how can we survive when our world is broken we're burned and crucified when the lies are spoke the time stops again tell me now how to make things right come wipe these tears from my eyes tell me now how to make things right come wipe these tears from my eyes how can we survive when our world is broken we're burned and crucified (crucified) when the lies are spoke (lies are spoken) how can we survive (lies are spoken) lies are spoken lies are spoken and time ticks away tick tick away tick tick away tick tick away