I always will

You know that I just wanna show you

Just how much you mean to me

Always have, always will I was mesmerised when I first met you I wouldn't let myself believe That you could step out of my wildest dreams But you didn't know the secret part of me Until we kissed and made it open up so easily I always have Even when I didn't show I always will You know that I just wanna touch you Whenever you're close to me I always have Doesn't matter where we go I always will You know that I just wanna show you Just how much you mean to me Always have, always will Everything that you give in to Everything you'll ever need Is locked up somewhere deep inside of $\ensuremath{\mathsf{me}}$ You gotta know But more importantly You've got to stay and hold me while I live this fantasy I always have Even when I didn't show I always will You know that I just wanna touch you Whenever you're close to me I always have Doesn't matter where we go I always will You know that I just wanna show you Just how much you mean to me Sometimes we try too hard to please We should let love come naturally And sometimes I don't know Just what you really do to me Oh, that's o.k. 'Cause it's part of the mystery I always have Even when I didn't show I always will You know that I just wanna touch you Whenever you're close to me I always have Doesn't matter where we go
