

Underwater

All-Time Quarterback

(This is a shorter version of the "Underwater" by Death Cab for Cutie.)

You were my army
And I would command
"Attack the holy land"

And you were that interstate
That I would roll my tanks down

So color me stunned
And wake the children when done
And put the details in a jar
And bury them underwater

I went to see this battleground with battlesound
And drove to the outskirts
Where cars were on blocks and houses run down

So color me stunned
And wake the children when done
And put the details in a jar
And bury them underwater
