

Feeling That Feeling Again

Allison Moorer

The moment these lips said I'm leaving
I felt in my heart I was wrong
But I told myself I might as well
Since I already spent nights alone

I thought I had put it behind me
Guess that's why I'm so surprised
That my heart started a-racing
When I ran into you tonight

I'm feeling that feeling again
Exactly like I did back then
But, darling, only a fool
Would take one more chance with you

There was a good reason why
I had to tell you goodbye
But I can't pretend it's not love that I'm in
'Cause I'm feeling that feeling again

Now I'm lying here like I used to Lonesome as a young widowed bride
And just like the old days, before I went my way
A question is burning inside

Were we made for each other?
To walk through the fire hand in hand
Well, I'll never know for certain
But I'm feeling that feeling again

I'm feeling that feeling again
Exactly like I did back then
But, darling, only a fool
Would take one more chance with you