

Make It Work

Allister

That's the sound of the last threads starting to fray
If we don't watch out we'll fall down the rest of the way If it continues on like this, then there'll be nothing left for us to fix
What we, both need, is time apart before it gets any worse
We might, just find, we're better off, or learn how to make it work
As the flame makes it's way to the end of the rope if we don't do something soon than it's gonna explode Been together long enough, to know sometimes we need a little space once in a while to breathe.
I know this time was bad but I think that we should wait a couple days,
take a few steps back and think before we throw it all away