A Violent Reaction

American Head Charge

lead me around nurse my broken wing with all the promises you can never honor I just dont care enough to react to vain attempts sent only to perpetuate one's selfish little world you wont see what ive become youll wait and watch and still youre only let down a violent reaction struggling only to keep myself alive now here I stand for nothing no one at all I lead you down begging to touch you in the cold you give me a reason I will not be the one through all the nonsense there is a constant you wont see what ive become youll wait and watch and still youre only let down cause this feeling has dawned the face of you a violent reaction struggling only to keep myself alive you wont see what ive become cause this feeling has dawned the face of you a violent reaction struggling only to keep myself alive