The Battle of the Ancient Warriors

Ancient

Death herself had chosen me
To let me watch that gruesome scene
And she held me in her daunting hand
Amazed by that macabre view,
My heart begun to pulse
Galvanized by horrors that I saw

The battle was butchering and
The hordes were rising against each other
Saving nothing but death
The dust was rising up in the sky,
Dead bodies were lying on the ground,
A deadly mass of fierce warriors fighting

While the demons were prevailing
On the sons of god
They were tuning dirges saying:
"DIE!!!
Meaningless creatures, slaves of the light
I will triumph for the the evil lives in me!"

A veil of flames war covering the field The bloody battle reached its end The ancient warriors got victory in hand The Battle of battles was won!

Her Majesty, the wicked one, was staring at her enemy Thunderstrucks resounding once again The seven angels holding trumpets disappeared God left the field beaten as the earth started to shake... It was my dream!!!