Winter has come And the snow at the window is Grey as my mind I'd want to just leave it all behind Something is out there I need to find Dark is the night And the cold is my enemy I want to hide But I ain't got no time to flee Could I leave forever and a day I would look for a bay And would there be forever lasting May I wouldn't change a day Life is a bitch Too expensive to be your friend I wanna fly Far away where the winter ends Lay down at the beach And build castles with sand Could I leave forever and a day I would look for a bay And would there be forever lasting May I wouldn't change a day
