In a forest of stone
Underneath the corporate canopy
Where the sun rarely filters down
The ground is not so soft
Not so soft

And it was not that soft before

They build buildings to house people Making money Or they build buildings to make money Off of housing people It's true Like a lot of things are true I am foraging for a phone booth on the forest floor That is not so soft I look up It looks like the buildings are burning But it's just the sun setting The solar system calling an end to another business day Eternally circling signally The rythmic clicking on and off of computers The pulse of the American machine The pulse that draws death dancing Out of anonymous side streets You know The ones that always get dumped on and never get plowed It draws death dancing Out of little countries With funny languages Where the ground is getting harder

Those who call the shots are never in the line of fire Why
Where there's life for hire out there
If a flag of truth were raised
We could watch every liar rise to wave it
Here we learn America like a script
Playwright
Birthright
Same thing
We bring ourselves to the role
We're all rehearsing for the presidency
I always wanted to be commander in chief of my one woman army

But I can envision the mediocrity of my finest hour It's the failed America in me It's the fear that lives in a forest of stone Underneath the corporate canopy Where the sun rarely filters down And the ground is not so soft
