A Wall

You touch a wall And if you could You would suck up its plaster You want to pull a brick To see What is behind a wall when you sleep

The light of a slit Clings to thoughts When you are pushing through it You feel breath On your wet shoulders Then run into a lift and falls down... Artrosis