

Throwing a Ball

Balthazar

Now they're throwing a ball
and we're all invited.
Now they're throwing a ball
and we're all invited.

Now all of the girls,
hand in hand,
raised under the bright urban lights.
There's something about the way they dig themselves deeper into the underground.

Now they're throwing a ball
and we're all invited
inside their big city walls.
So we dress up in big city looks,
excited to win their hearts for us all.

There's something about the way they dance,
all together hand in hand.
There's something about the way they dance,
all together hand in hand.
There's something about the way they dance,
all together hand in hand.
There's something about the way they dance,
all together hand in hand.
There's something about the way they dance

Now they're throwing a ball
and we're all invited
inside their big city walls.
So we dress up in big city looks,
excited to win their hearts for us all.

Now they're throwing a ball
and we're all invited
inside their big city walls.
So we dress up in big city looks,
excited to win their hearts for us all.
