Decade of Darkness

Before the Dawn

A decade ago I felt like unbreakable And I had an angel in my songs A long time has past, but many things have lasted I still hear the wings of a seraphim

I am still a sleepless dreamer Stand behind father and son Black heart, faithless, unbeliever Still each night before the dawn I hear the deadsong

I am alone With monsters in my room They have come to take me

Before I disappear Into my darkness I want you to hide me

I watch the morning sun Without vengeance or wrath I'll wait for the black dawn to come Don't look behind, wish for things to be undone Things happen for a reason under the dying sun
