The Shrew

She wasn't ever obliged To lift me a buckle or rise And once her eyes covered with flies The pain she no longer disguised Windows that I'm terrorized in time Never to ignite There was once a time beside It holds each one in light 'Til the market left dry How long she's been by my side But at last, the stable's retired

Beirut