

Follow The Moonlight

Beto Vázquez Infinity

The silence that grows ... the breeze that kisses the sea,
two beings under the moonlight that the landscape bathes, the last dream of which nobody returns
the last dream of peace and eternity.

Moonlight lives between the nets of this world,
in a space without beginning and without an end

until the light of the last star sinks in the skies
And before that the bird his happy flight raises.

Deep sadnesses
of love, which in sobs explode, looking at the moonlight
that across the grating is coming to be my path
Moonlight lives between the nets of this world,
in a space without beginning and without an end

until the light of the last star sinks in the skies
And before that the bird his happy flight raises.

Let me love you, my heart weeps blood whenever you are far from me
My heart bleeds cause I don't have you I'll be your air and you will be the skin
that covers my loneliness

Let me love you, my heart weeps blood whenever you are far from
me
My heart bleeds cause I don't have you
I'll be your air and you will be the skin
that covers my loneliness

I wanna be close to you...
Moonlight, the radiant lady who is not afraid of to the dark sunset