

Good Luck

Big D And The Kids Table

I've seen 22 years of life and I think I basically now what's going on as far as what life's not about, there's a cycle I won't be part of, but it's not because I don't think it's right, I got to keep doing what I think I'm here for and not get buried in someone else's life, when I was younger I didn't know life meant falling into place, taking over a manual position that meant nothing to you in the first place, getting older confused by friends they're 22 and almost done, I must have missed the grownup sign I thought we were still having fun

So good luck, with not forgetting who you are, even though it seems you have to

Good luck, finding your own way not settling in where you're not happy

Good luck, remembering it's only life

Good luck, not following what you don't believe in

Good luck, seeing many problems are only a big deal if you make them

Everyone I met surrounds me every day in my head it's a part of what makes me who I am, it's the attitude of my life, and I turn around and see how some have made me feel so nice to me just made me laugh at life when I couldn't deal, and I wanna be just like that it's what I want to be, not held down by others but now I can see, I'll make my life a place I like or I could just sit and blame for things not right, what's to gain spending all of our life putting your friends down again and again,

So good luck, being someone who can always help someone out

Good luck, in remembering how much you can effect someone else's

Good luck with not being selfish

Good luck with not being alone

Good luck in this world we're all just trying to get along

Good luck with not getting caught up

Good luck with not getting stressed

Good luck with figuring things out

Good luck with doing your best

Good luck with not losing yourself

Good luck for standing for what's right

Good luck for being happy when you sit to review your life
