Look for me on the mountain Cry to me on the winds Call for me in the canyons And you will find me again Cone to me with your sorrow Come to me with your pain I have seen your tomorrow But tonight brings the rain After the storm is over And the rains have come and gone After the storm is over I was there all along Reach for me when you're broken When the journey is too long When all your worry is unspoken For in your weakness I am strong Call to me from the darkness Turn to me when you thirst Come to me when you're homeless Then the last will be first
