

I can see
See you there
Hanging there weightless in the air
Wind and sunlight in your hair
I can see you
I can see you there

Your olive skin
Your secret smile
Betrayed again a secret island in your mind
Lost forever
Lost before your time

Who is to say?
Who is to know the truth?
And who is there left
When nothing they said can save you

Broken glass
A bleeding wrist
A second chance for a simple kiss
I waited for you at the edge
Could you take such a risk?

On your knees, on your back
Who'd you call when things got bad?
Did they answer?
Did you ask?
'Cause I would answer
I would tell you this

Who is to say?
Who is to know the truth?
When no one is left
And nothing they said can save you

Who is to say?
Who is to blame?
And who will you give yourself to?
'Cause nobody wants you more than I want you

Who is to say?
Who is to blame?
'Cause nobody wants you like I do
