

We dim these lights for your return
Only you never showed
I still see this door open
Expecting your arrival
I need to hear those words

Laying motionless on the floor
You felt the cold of this early morning
Now you cannot feel the cold of it's night
All your pain has gone
All your pain has gone
All your pain has gone

I remember laying on my back staring at the ceiling
Wondering what comes next
Can it get any worse than this?
My pain has been numbed with fear

Laying motionless on the floor
You felt the cold of this early morning
Now you cannot feel the cold of it's night
All your pain has gone

I can never seem to speak of this tragedy
So my pen bleeds all of my emotion onto this paper
All your pain has gone
All your pain has gone

I remember laying on my back staring at the ceiling
Wondering what comes next
Can it get any worse than this?
My pain has been numbed with fear

So this is how it feels to be stripped of hope
As I have never felt so fucking empty
Watch the color drain from my skin
Take every last piece of it in and
And think before you realize what you may lose
What you may lose
What you may lose
What you may lose