The Obvious Destination

Chapter one

Downcast of shadows, the self denied The self denied of hidden places Lost passages, pure volatile Dripping from the cracks that keep you

Lost in parables Convulsions of the epileptic kingdoms that bestow Clean thorough antiseptic Scrubbing deep into the bone

Condensing the marrow Taste perfected The cattle won't disown The human man must be inspected

If I were to touch you Would you wither in my arms? And if I were to love you Would you motion to disarm? Sense of warning

Chapter two

Rigid from the petrified essence Estimated measures Celestial in my presence A stew of precious treasurers

Reaction from the casualties That surround me slithering A transparent excess suppressing Pull the lever

Chapter three

Fall infected down Miracles designed for success All of us, are you harvesting with the maggots? Falling hard with dung on your breath

Infesting what is pure and damaged Like swarms of locust feeding Born first, still in needing

Chapter four

Alert the dogs flee an expert on penalty Without vision the birds of the air will Pick at your skull, calloused clothed in darkness Tragedies turn providing alternatives

Development additives sediments Firm evolving supporting the process Dedicated moments of silence

Candiria

Chapter five

Quest of the new Increasing the magnification of your velocity Would this be considered growth through hypocrisy Advancement merging with the contents of the universe

The focus of enhancement Evacuate the premises that continue to revolve Cluttering of arrangements that continue to dissolve You accelerate beyond the surrounding borders

Maintain the order, irradiation The newest method of preservation Radioactive spastic and down for the cause Spoiled by mold, nuclear turbines Fool injected outlawed Newton's third law of motion