

You won't have to sleep in the beds that you made,
You won't have to live in your dreams now.
You won't have to wait for the silent parade,
You won't have to feel so apart now.

You won't have to love just for the sake,
You won't have to play in the game now.
It's never enough just to be remembered,
It's always the look on the faces.

No one will waste this moment,
Cuz I won't live forever.
But I done waitin' on a soul to save me
If I wait too long it might take forever
To find my way back home
You never wasted a breath on me to tell me you were leavin'
Now you're gone

You won't have to feel like another mistake
You won't have to make an excuse now
It's never enough just to be remembered,
It's always the look on the faces.

No one will waste this moment,
Cuz I won't live forever.
But I done waitin on a soul to save me
But if I way too long in my train forever
To find my way back home
You never wasted a breath on me to tell me you were leavin'
Now you're gone,
Now you're gone.

No one will waste this moment,
No one will waste this moment
But I tried waiting on a soul to save me
But if I wait too long it might take forever
To find my way back home
You never wasted a breath on me to tell me you were leaving,
To tell me you were leaving,
But now you're gone.
