Last night, I went out with some old friends I couldn't help but to think of you again Someone was wearing your cologne What a cruel way to remind me that your gone

A couple danced over by the jukebox Hand in hand, I thought they'd never stop They played out song again and again How could anyone be so insensitive

They're laughing at me
I just know it
As if they knew all along I'd blow it
Everywhere I turn, something reminds me of the way things were
I love you, I lost you, I know what a fool I've been
And it seems like the whole world keeps rubbin' it in

Every time I turn on the TV
I comer across one of our favorite movies
A love story that ends in a kiss
How'd the cable company get in on this

I swear I pass your car when I'm on the highway Since when did everyone drive red Chevrolets it never really is your car I think some people are taking this a little too far

They're laughing at me
I just know it
As if they knew all along I'd blow it
Everywhere I turn, something reminds me of the way things were
I love you, I lost you, I know what a fool I've been
And it seems like the whole world keeps rubbin' it in (2x)

Yeah it seems like the whole world keeps rubbin' it in