Your Charms

Cinerama

You always seem to laugh For every photograph If I didn't know you better I'd say you were flirting with the males Because, oh, it never fails To make them stare, etc.

But the ploys of womankind could not be Further from your mind That's never your intention So I'm always amused Whenever you are left confused At being centre of attention

And darling, I just can't think clearly It happens when I'm in your arms And my heart is pounding How pathetic is this sounding? I'm unquestionably Captivated by your charms And the way you thrill me I think I always will be

Now you're tossing back your hair And you're completely unaware Of how they're drooling over you And it is no coincidence Yes, it's your very innocence That makes them act the way they do

And darling, I just can't think clearly It happens when I'm in your arms And my heart is pounding How pathetic is this sounding? I'm unquestionably Captivated by your charms And the way you thrill me I think I always will be

I just can't think clearly It happens when I'm in your arms And my heart is pounding How pathetic is this sounding? I'm unquestionably Captivated by your charms And the way you thrill me I think I always will be