Jackie had a dad who didn't have Jesus He had no hope, no reason to live One day she told him of the peace He brings us The freedom God so freely gives For fifteen years, eight of those were Jackie's He wouldn't hear and he wouldn't see Then before he died he asked Jackie Who's this man who'll set me free? ooh little Jackie...ooh little Jackie He's the man who gave His life for me Not just a man, in fact a King The blind see His mercy, the deaf hear His voice I know Him she said, and He wants to know you Jackie saw her dad go home to see Jesus Now she watches a dying world So much in need of hope and of rest So much in need of the peace she knows ooh little Jackie ... ooh little Jackie The world despises, the foolish reign They mock the Word of God we live Even though they love to hate Him He loves them so...that's who Jesus is
