

Running Water

Daniel Johnston

Running water, running water
Where are you running from?
You always seem to be on the run

And you never change
No matter what you do
You always wind up the same

Never knowing where you go
Always running, never stopping to see where you're at
Never looking back
Nothing seems to slow you down

Running water, running water
Where are you running from?
You always seem to be on the run
You always seem to be on the run