

Come Back Home

Daniel Powter

My new friends are looking out for me
And I'm doing just fine,
And everything is how it ought to be
But you know that's just a lie

I hear things are going well for you
You're out there having a blast,
But if it's somehow not ringing true
Know that I still want you back

Home, won't you come home
Back to the place where you belong
I need you home, so we're not alone
No one remembers who was wrong
I don't care where you've gone
Just come back home

Now looking down this empty hallway
You're still here in the frames
I see your face on every stranger that walks by
I swear I hear you call out my name

Home, won't you come home
Back to the place where you belong
I need you home, so we're not alone
No one remembers who was wrong
I don't care where you've gone
Just come back home

And now I've watched the leaves changing colors for the second time,
Am I getting closer to you or am I running blind I'm moving through our lives backwards just to meet you at the start
I can't tell if we're together or just falling back apart
Just falling back apart

Home, won't you come home
Back to the place where you belong
I need you home, so we're not alone
No one remembers who was wrong
Just come back home
Just come back
I don't know where you've gone
Just come back home
