

I'm facing the days
with trying to feel nothing is over
nothing is real
while searching for ways out of the deep
how this world can be a place to breath again

And I begin to wonder how life could get away from me with all I couldn't save silence the only way

Since you've been gone
I try to arrange
with nothing but fear
I don't want the change emptiness haunts
at day and by night
And how on earth will I be able to feel again?

And when I am gone
you'll have nothing to fear just silence that knows that I will not be here I'll leave you in hope to remember the days
we walked through the light until we had to part ways...