Castleland

Screams of war and vengeance Battles rage before my eyes I hear the call of warriors proud Who once ruled this land

Foreign prophets came to praise Only a pack of lies was brought Men lost values, tribe and pride And murdered were the wise

The wounds have never healed The shame is never forgotten Foreign gods, castleland They all don't belong here

Legends, myths and sagas Still surround your timeless throne Casteland, majestic fatherland Here where i'm one with you

They tried to kill the cults But your spirit cannot die May the truth be buried But your glory will alway survive

When the ancient gods return Then the circle of time is closed Casteland then I know We must raise our swords for you Desaster
