Someone had a dream Never been to London Never in a limousine

Something made him go Could it be the voices Coming from the radio

But somewhere down the line
The happiness you'll find
Will crash into a wall
Just before the fall

Someone joined the band
But he never heard the music
Couldn't really understand
No, no no

Don't know what they mean Where's my picture
Shining from a magazine

But somewhere down the line He'll quickly glance behind Then smash into a wall Before the fall

Someone ran so fast When he saw the future He was sure that it was just the past

Someone had a dream Only this one ended lost Inside the old machine

And somewhere down the line They'll say that his is mine And all that's left is time Time to fall and stumble, ah
