The Gentry Cove

Dirty Pretty Things

Run they said to a promised land Run and find us a helping hand Don't come back till the sun is gone Don't come back till the war is won

We all set out with our hearts in hand A cold wind covered up a line in the sand All so young Nothing to lose Pieces of silver and a dead mans shoes

And oh do you know what I'm saying Strike a light to guide us Somewhere

Tempest swells our worlds collide Arrows from above and the salt in our eyes Then as the sky began to bruise We all sought shelter from the breaking news

Oh did I ever show you
All the great memorials, all the factory floors
And oh though you know I don't know you
Now that were here
Let's make them proud

On and on and on and on and on we go Traipsing over bridges Over corpses down below And all the while we could have smiled

For one thing on our minds
The very thing you strive for
Is the thing that makes you blind

Run they said to a promised land Run and find us a helping hand Don't come back till the sun is gone Don't come back till the war is won

Tempest high, stories tall
Thought that we learnt nothing at all
Then at last the day was saved
With flowers borrowed from a dead friends grave

And oh even still I don't know you Maybe I'll show you If you've eyes to see

And so farewell
And so farewell
And so farewell
And so farewell to it
