

Arsonists vs. Firemen

Disco Ensemble

I have seen your soul
The soul that shone it's light for all the grave
I have seen your stare
The stare that set our attics into flames

I thought you promised me
You'd live eternally
But maybe that was just a phase, you drama queen
In a fight who you think wins, arsonists or firemen?
I would do anything to hear your voice just once again.

I have seen your soul
The soul that shone it's light for all the grave
Wither away
I have seen your stare
The stare that set our attics into flames
Wither away

You'd make no compromise
Lit sparks into my eyes
You're a beautiful piece of weaponry
An arsonist to set a blaze
A fireman to kill the flames
I would do anything to hear your voice just once again.

I thought you promised me
You'd live eternally
But you could sleep a hundred years or even more
And now that we're all fucked and we are running out of luck
I get no rest until I hear your voice again