don't come home like that. home isn't where we should be hiding . this room is echoing terrifically. your tongue is slipping in stinctively. it's a shame true feelings run from your bottle. w as i nothing more than a part of your foundation? a beam in you r scheme. a seam in your creation. and you don't hesitate to ha mmer us in to the concrete. and you watch us bend because you c an't wedge your way into nothingness. don't come home like that . home isn't where we should be hiding. this room is echoing te rrifically. your tongue is slipping instinctively. it's a shame true feelings run from your bottle. this is how my house moves and breathes and as awkward as it may be. it's my house and i am breathing its toxicity.
