Say it to my face!

Should've been a man, but you don't know how Play your hand you lost, but it's too late now Have to pay the price for things you've said, yeah!

Say it to my face! Pretend that you're a man Who had the nerve to stand And look me in the eye

Say it to my face!
Soon enough I'll find you
In the dark behind you
I'll be waiting

If you got something to tell me, Come out of the shadows now and Say it to my face!

Give it up, should've known much better Words spoken, no, they can't come home You'd think that people keep your lies a secret But their tongues go wagging, spill everything they know

Should've been a man, but you don't know how Play your hand you lost, but it's too late now Have to pay the price for things you've said, yeah!

Say it to my face! Pretend that you're a man Who had the nerve to stand And look me in the eye

Say it to my face!
Soon enough I'll find you
In the dark behind you
I'll be waiting

If you got something to tell me, Come out of the shadows now and Say it to my face!

Words can build you like a dangerous weapon Words can build a secret suicide Your words seal the vergue and die if you Can't take them back now its too late to try

Should've been a man, but you don't know how Play your hand you lost, but it's too late now Have to pay the price for things you've said, yeah!

Say it to my face! Pretend that you're a man Who had the nerve to stand And look me in the eye Say it to my face!
Soon enough I'll find you
In the dark behind you
I'll be waiting

If you got something to tell me, Come out of the shadows now and Say it to my face!

Every word has a price, you will pay it Every wrong has a right, I'll make you say it Every dog has his day, yours is ending I'll put to rest that rebreath, that rebreath That rebreath you intended

Say it to my face! Pretend that you're a man Who had the nerve to stand And look me in the eye

Say it to my face!
Soon enough I'll find you
In the dark behind you
I'll be waiting

Say it to my face!
Pretend that you're a man
Who had the nerve to stand
And look me in the eye

Say it to my face!
Soon enough I'll find you
In the dark behind you
I'll be waiting

If you got something to tell me, Come out of the shadows now and

If you got something to tell me, Come out of the shadows now and

Say it to my face! Say it to my face!