

After The Rain

Echoterra

Sometimes at night I feel them
Waiting for the dawn
I hear them call out to me; no one do I see
I wander alone through the rain
Drifting I hear them calling;
This time there's no uncertainty

From the depths below
Where only demons dare to go
Resonates the unseen force
Rising through the fragile core

After the rain comes crashing down
Who will be left to sing the songs?
And when the new day has begun;
Who'll wipe the tears away?
After the rain comes crashing down
There's no one left to carry on
And then the bells begin to chime
For whom it tolls tonight?

Silently I slip into their lair
Never a doubt as I see the despair;
I sense it everywhere
Now I know what must be done
I take a final look and then I'm gone
My story will live forever on!

From the depths below
Where only demons dare to go
Resonates the unseen force
Rising through the fragile core

After the rain comes crashing down
Who will be left to sing the songs?
And when the new day has begun;
Who'll wipe the tears away?
After the rain comes crashing down
There's no one left to carry on
And then the bells begin to chime
For whom it tolls tonight?

From far away they came to enlighten us
Offering to change the ways
That have led us down the road to rein