You're Too Much

I love to hear you talk and I love to watch your head move I love to tune you in every night and I love to watch you with ice cream Chocolate chip, with a little whipped cream I love to hear your opinion and I love to share it with all of my friends I love to feel so informed I love to watch your little mouth Because you're just too much The way you smile The way you dress The way you stress Sometimes I get to wondering what it is you're talking about I love to hear your opinion and I love to share it with all of my friends I love to' I love to' I love to' But I don't want to But you're just too much The way you smile The way you dress The way you stress Sometimes I get to wondering what it is you're talking about You're just too much

I can't control myself The way you stress certain items These things stick out to me, too I love you Failure
