King For A Day

Bled the line tonight, fading as the lies Lie weeping on the page, nothing was saved

Falling at the sight, photographs of white Bright grin and sunny days and all was betrayed

And I think I know The reason that your light would never stay And all that's left to show Are memories now but I can truly say I was king for a day

And I think I know The reason that your light would never stay And all that's left to show Are memories now but I can truly say I was king for a day

And I think I know The reason that your light would never stay And all that's left to show Are memories now but I can truly say Hey, hey, I was king for a day, yeah