

Every Memory

Gabriella Cilmi

You, you were always like my second skin
Now I can't stop the seams from tearing

Black flowers bloom
I think of you always the same
When you're out of touch
Those petals cut
Like razor blades

Don't leave cause my hearts still open
Bleeding on my blue sleeve
And the sun is burning every memory

Slow shadows in the early morning glow
And I can feel my whole world falling

Black flowers bloom
This living room
Brings back my pain
Just one little touch
Those petals cut
Like razorblades

Don't leave cause my hearts still open
Bleeding on my blue sleeve
And the sun is burning every memory
(2x)

And it goes out the window
Everything that I should know
Mother nature's so unkind
When you're in her firing line
So you left out the window
Gone away where the wind blows
Mother nature's so unkind
Cause you're not coming back this time

Don't leave cause my hearts still open
Bleeding on my blue sleeve
And the sun is burning every memory
(2x)
