Untouchable

This is nothing new to me It takes more than what you've got To frighten me I'm not scared of you There's nothing you can do Or take from me

Untouchable You think you're untouchable You know No one's untouchable

You're bound to lose the game There's no one else to blame You play so safe And you're not risking enough You are doomed to be undone I swear I'll be the one To bring you down

It's all your fault Cause you got caught

Untouchable You think you're untouchable You know No one's untouchable

It must be nice To be so sure And never feel insecure It must feel good to believe You're always right And you're never wrong

You've got something to say You say it to my face And be a man about it You got a problem with me Don't go behind my back Just like a baby

Untouchable (pride comes before) You think you're untouchable (you take a fall) You know (you best beware) No one's untouchable (a woman scorned) Untouchable (pride comes before) You think you're untouchable (you take a fall) You know (you best beware) No one's untouchable (a woman scorned) No one's untouchable (a woman scorned) No one's untouchable You think you're untouchable You know, no one's untouchable No one's untouchable No one's untouchable No one's untouchable
