

Ordinary Life

Gazebo

And I shed my soul, feel it kneeling down
I'm clutching my faith, pull it tightly round
You're moving your mouth but you don't make a sound
But I feel the walls slowly tearing down
Heel to toe takes you from my side
In and out, every breath divides
My eyes to your head,
I can't go the distance
But when you go you take me in an instant
In this life, I'll give it time
'Cause its always pushing up from behind

It'll be alright, it will be fine
It's nothing more than ordinary life
And I show you my sins, show me all your scars
As we settle in, its written in the stars
Your watery eyes got me send me floating
And my weak heart is swimming with devotion
But in this life
I'll give it time
'Cause its always sneaking up from behind
It'll be alright, it will be fine
Its nothing more than ordinary life
