If You Loved a Liar (You'd Hug My Neck)

George Jones

How could I be the one of all that you couldn't see this time I must think that you're a fool, can't read between the lines I'll say one thing then I run to her and I think you don't suspect

But if you loved a liar, darlin', you'd hug my neck.

Lord, I drained you dry of all your faith each time your back \boldsymbol{w} as turned

It seems with all the love you gave I've never seemed concerned How could my broken promises gain back all your respect For if you loved a liar, darlin', you'd hug my neck.

How could my broken promises gain back all your respect For if you loved a liar, darlin', you'd hug my neck
