

There Ain't No Grave Deep Enough

George Jones

Even though I know it's over and your hearts with someone new
There ain't no grave deep enough to bury my love for you
There's no way to hide my feelings or cover up the truth
There ain't no grave deep enough to bury my love for you.

If ever you may need me if your new love does you wrong
On bended knee with open arms I'll welcome you back home
My love for you won't let me be ashamed of what you do
There ain't no grave deep enough to bury my love for you.

If ever you may need me if your new love does you wrong
On bended knee with open arms I'll welcome you back home
My love for you won't let me be ashamed of what you do.
There ain't no grave deep enough to bury my love for you.

No, there ain't no grave deep enough to bury my love for you...
