Sadness Runs Deep

Hawkwind

I have the dream in the palm of my hand but if I fell off that tightrope on which side would I land? Insecurity and freedom, it's a narrow path don't know what she wants now ('cos I've ) forgotten how to laugh. Frightening thoughts spin, around my head betrayal and misery, things that were said deep-down inside me the sadness runs deep the only release from the torture comes when I'm asleep all of these feelings are trapped deep-down inside for you it's a joke now I've got nowhere to hide. Send someone to help me, I'm lonely and I'm scared I was gonna pile up, my emotions they were bared my weak points they were noted, put away for future use she says that she loves me, as she tightens up the noose.