I Will Wait

Hootie & The Blowfish

Aboard his ship he stops to stare Needs to smell her, touch her hair Say's "I can't be without her" Tonight he's going to be without her

"It's late now", she say's Makes her mind up goes to bed Another night alone without him Another night alone in Charleston

When I wake to find the solace of All that we've become I can't wait to make the promises I've been leery of

I'll be there waiting for you In the morning when times have changed I'll be there through the lies and all Standing like your soldiers You hold your secrets Through the days when I need to be alone I will wait for you Through the lies and all

She was left behind so they could stay God to feel him this she prays It would make her feel so much better I want to feel so much better
