

To shed skin and begin an intake that will make a difference in clear thinking for conquering any fear that is thrown in direction when at a weak point or time of suffering the edge won't quit if there is no gibing in to what drags on to be negative or seem wrong to live to carry back home with full intent and better sense recognize what is false and part with it knowing doubtless by instinct which triggers thought on how to grow in soul without gold or praised lies which keep the sheep all right with anything that seems safe and convenient