

Walk Your Valley

Indigo Girls

It's over, hang your gun down
And eat this simple fare
What you need is to feed on something
Warm and hand prepared

The ice at the edges
Waters, change is near
And send you, give in to
And free your long imprisoned tears

Walk your valley, walk your shadow
Afraid but on your feet
'Til your fire in the sky meet

So sick mad seas made me
Tossed at such a clip
How I clung to you, horizon
The captain of my ship

Your flame never faltered
Even in the fiercest wind
Even the strongest wick grows dim and sick
When it's burning at both ends

Walk your valley, walk your shadow
Afraid but on your feet
'Til your fire in my sky meet

There is nothing but now
Here's a cloth for your brow
You've done well
But it's time you rest awhile

You've taken on the whole world
Like a boy, like a girl
You're a full grown wonder
You're a child

All mis-believers
Speak with ease a cynic tongue
All is simple and loaded
Like buttons come undone

Like dreams and guns and questions
On fire but still alive
Unlock your best potential
... your sites on love tonight

Walk your valley, walk your shadow
Afraid but on your feet
'Til your fire in the sky meet

Walk your fire, walk your fire
Afraid but on your feet
'Til your fire in my sky meet
