

We Get to Feel It All

Indigo Girls

My, my... how time flies.
First time I met you - had to shade my eyes.
Cuz staring into the sun can make a girl blind.
Now here we sit in a shady spot.
Got what I wanted, and I want what I got...
But through the will of my own,
I just found my way home.

Here is what I learned about you.
You set the sun and you hung the moon.
Mid October or the month of June,
Temperatures rise and fall,
We get to feel it all.

Sometimes I can't tell
You're open like a book or shut like a shell.
But if I hold you to my ear,
I can hear the whole world.
Dark stories of a distant past
Our time created in a single blast...
You like to laugh at me because I'm serious... serious
Yes it's true...
But, Here is what I learned about you.
You set the sun and you hung the moon.
Mid October or the month of June, temperatures rise and fall,
We get to feel it all. We get to feel it all. We get to feel it all.
We get to feel it all.

Time waits for no one...
So I'm remembering that day in the sun.
How I was thinking that you needed time to cool down.
Circumstances make us tired and colder...
That's my coat thrown around your shoulder
And I know you'll give it back to me if I need it...
I believe it...

Here is what I learned about you.
You set the sun and you hung the moon.
Mid October or the month of June, temperatures rise and fall...
Here is what I learned about you.

You set the sun and you hung the moon.

Mid October or the month of June, temperatures rise and fall,

We get to feel it all.
