I have a sequin for an eye
Pick a rose and hide my face
This is the bandit's life
It comes and goes and them's the breaks
Under a molten sky, beyond the road, we lie in wait
You think they know us now?
Wait 'til the stars come out
You'll see that

Well, I made you and now I take you back It's too late but today I can define the lack I made you and now I take you back

Sun, you sleep in clouds of fire That's all and that's right My sun, you sleep in clouds of fire That's all and that's right

I can still feel it when you lie Pick a rose just to hide my face Well, if there's something I should know I seek no science when there is no shape Under a molten sky, let the days collide Well, I made you and now I take you back

Sun, you sleep in clouds of fire That's all and that's right My sun, you sleep in clouds of fire That's all and that's right