

Story Of Elaine

Jazzamor

She's sitting on the early morning train looking through the window and watching rain thinking dreaming of the love last night his lips so soft and his eyes so bright

Passion touching like the waves of the sea drowning love cannot be reality

She never ever let him go she never ever wanna know what's life without his love She loves him she loves him so she never ever wanna let him go longing to be in his arms

Laughter beaming like the rays of sun glittering like a diamond and having fun the feeling of his hand on her thigh oh heaven is so near she wants to die

Give give all you can take him, make him your man joy and rapture in one night spent

She never ever let him go
she never ever wanna know
what's life without his love
She loves him she loves him so
she never ever wanna let him go
longing to be in his arms