

Face in the Crowd

Joseph Arthur

Mostly you get what you want,
That's the way it is.
Until you put up a front,
Which goes something like this:
You want everyone to look at you until no one looks away,
Everyone to look at you now they want you to stay,
But you turn back now.
Just another face in the crowd,
Yeah you turn back now.
Just another face in the crowd.

Mostly they think you're free,
And you love yourself.
Until you no longer see,
You're just like everyone else.
You want everyone to look at you until no one looks away,
Everyone to look at you now they want you to stay.
But you turn back now,
Just another face in the crowd.
Yeah you turn back now,
Just another face in the crowd.

And just like before, you still want love.
Take your foot out of every door, and rise above.

There's nowhere to get away,
In an open space.
And no price left you could pay,
To avoid your own face,
When you want everyone to look at you until no one looks away,
Everyone to look at you now they want you to stay,
But you turn back now,
Just another face in the crowd.
Yeah you turn back now,

Just another face in the crowd.
Just another face in the crowd (Just another face in the)
Just another face in the crowd (Just another face in the)
Just another face in the crowd.
Just another face in the crowd.
