

O How I Enjoy the Light

Katatonia

It's us i liken to a covey
A polar bear has breached a
Pup
The palace walls are
Strewn with tapestries
And the window panes are
Splintered and shattered
With a crumbled dog
On every landing
And every stranger cowers
The dress is torn,
The tone demanding
The canine's latent strength

And would her loins
Would yield a yelp
A beating purr to steal the
Time with
Here's where we walk,
Hand in hand
O how i despise it
O how i enjoy the light
Of the first morning forever
Wisdom, wealth tag
On like afterbirth
I will love you forever

And if i don't
And if i do
The difference exists in a
Fiction
The day has cooled,
The time will too
And we will call upon the light
