Daydream and Saunter

Kathryn Williams

Your shadow danced on the side of the train All i was left with was a memory that was tamed I know there's no more in you than you The only thing that could keep us together now is glue And you daydream and saunter like life was your lover I know you'll be like that when you're older You were eyes moving slowly You were lips that knew their beauty i was nothing that i really am Trying to love this man You daydream I want the proof Insulting me more than i insulted you And you daydream and saunter like life was your lover I know you'll be like that when you're older
